

Home » Local Media Blog, Mobile Apps

Mobilize '10: PhoneTell Unearths Airline Customer Service Numbers (video)

By: Mike Boland 30 September 2010

PhoneTell CEO Steve Larsen just took the stage at Mobilize to announce the coming of its iPhone app, and a series A funding round. Terms of the funding weren't disclosed but will be next week.

The iPhone should get the product much more use and exposure. Preventing this from happening thus far was the iPhone's closed native functions (in this case, the dialer), so I'm not sure what has changed.

Phonetell taps into your phone's contacts (currently Android) as well as publicly available numbers to create an all in one dialer and phone number search engine. But the cool part is scraping coveted but hard to find numbers.

"We get you the baggage claim number at American Airlines or the customer service number at Amazon," said Larsen from the stage (full video below).